A RICHMOND PAPER FOR RICHMOND PEOPLE

TODAYS ODDITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—UP—"First time I ever missed," was the cryptic note left traced in the dust on the safe of the Roosevelt theater here today, by a burglar who left the safe unopened after fruitless efforts to break into it.

VOL. XXVI, NO. 2312. TELEPHONE 70-71 RICHMOND, CALIFORNIA, TUESDAY MORNING, OCTOBER 7, 1930. TELEPHONE 70-71 PRICE, 5c

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Some of our young Edisons may do a great deed for mankind if they will only invent some way to get rid of used safety razor blades. That is the problem that every man faces . . . unless he has enough cash to see a barber and be shaved every day.

* * * *

One can't put the blades in a little box in the medicine cabinet for fear that someone might get a hold of them and do damage to their fingers.

* * * *

And if they are placed in the garbage can, maybe the garbage man or someone will get cut.

* * * *

So what to do, what to do?

* * * *

One brilliant (?) idea advanced by a friend was to hire a rowboat and row out into the middle of the Pacific ocean and dump the used blades overboard.

* * * *

Which gives us an idea. If someone will advance the ready capital, we'll start a "Used Safety Blade Eradicator" company, unlimited.

* * * *

First we'll hire ourselves a boat . . . a tug to start out with. Then we will advertise in the leading journals, asking all men to send in their used safety razor blades and 25c in cash.

* * * *

After we get a boat load of blades, we'll take them out into the middle of the Pacific ocean and dump them.

* * * *

That suggestion has all kinds of possibilities to it. Just think, there are more than 2,000,000 men, at a very, very, very conservative estimate, who use safety razors. And we can safely say that every one of these men shaves at least five times a week.

* * * *

With the safety blade manufacturers making blades as they do at the present time, that means a blade a shave, or five blades a week.

* * * *

And five times 2,000,000 is 10,000,000 blades per week. And at twenty-five cents per man, or two million men, that means an income a week of, wait, let's figure this up, that means $500,000 per week . . . or is my arithmetic all wet?

* * * *

Now if that isn't a money making scheme, what is? All we need is the capital to start out on.

* * * *

Maybe we could make money on the side by filling up some of these tremendous "holes" in the ocean floor with safety razor blades.

* * * *

The more we think of the idea, the better we like it. Maybe we'll start selling stock.

* * * *

Now is the time to get in on the ground floor . . . adv.

School Census Started Here

The annual school census was started in Richmond yesterday, according to a report made.

The census is being made as the result of the state law that requires all minors under 18 should be registered.

It was stated yesterday that most of the Richmond families have been reached through the elementary schools. Citizens were warned however that if minors have not been reported, this should be attended to immediately. Parents may register their children at the nearest elementary school.

PARALYSIS OUTBREAK IN S. F.

MANY CASES REPORTED IN CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—UP—An average of three cases of infantile paralysis are being reported here each day, city health officials said tonight, bringing the number of cases in California so far this year to a higher figure than the total for any year since 1924.

There have been 1303 cases of infantile paralysis in California since the first of the year, statistics compiled by the state department of health today showed. There were 63 deaths from the disease during the first seven months of the year.

In 1925 there were 821 cases and 144 deaths. In 1927 there were 1298 cases, deaths resulting from 224 of them.

Reaches Peak

Officials of the state department said they had believed the epidemic reached its peak in July and characterized the situation here as a "flare-up."

Dr. Jacques P. Gray, assistant health officer of San Francisco, declined to say there was an epidemic of infantile paralysis here, but remarked "there are more cases than we would like to see."

He said the victims were ranging in age from six months to 47 years, commenting that the name of the disease was misleading since many who contract it are not children and only one patient out of seven is paralyzed. At the state board of health it was said that the disease has seemed to be more prevalent

ORDINANCES PASSED BY CITY COUNCIL

Two ordinances were given first reading at the meeting of the city council last night which will prevent shacks from being erected in the industrial zone at ehe foot of Tenth street.

The building ordinance is to be amended so that industries proposing to build, will have to take out permits, but will not be required to pay fees.

The fire zone ordinance is to be changed so that fire zone No. 1, which requires class A structures, will take in the property of the Ford company, the City of Richmond, Felice and Perelli, and about 20 acres of the Berkeley Waterfront company land just east of the Ford company property.

The proposed action is satisfactory to the property owners in the industrial district at the foot of Tenth street, and was taken primarily at the request of the Ford Motor company, who did not wish to see conditions ruined on the waterfront by the erection of a lot of cheap structures.

Chicken Ranch Permit Denied

The request of Henry Moriala for permission to establish a chicken ranch on lots 35 and 36 of block 60, Bay View park, was denied by the city council last night.

MILK WAR SEEN HERE

With the announcement yesterday that Richmond milk prices were cut from 12 to 11 cents at stores and from 14 to 13 cents delivered, another milk "war" was seen in the bay region.

At Oakland yesterday prices were cut two cents a quart by a number of the big dealers. This brought milk down to ten cents a quart in the store and 12 cents delivered at the home.

The prices had been 12 cents over the counter and 14 cents delivered at the home.

These price slashings were announced by the Alameda County Milk Dealers' association and the Cooperative Dairymen's association which claim to handle 75 to 80 percent of the milk in the bay region.

It was understood that these cuts followed reductions made by so-called "independent" dealers, selling retail to the home.

It was rumored last night that other slashes in the price of milk would be made in the bay region today.

PROBE OPENS IN FATAL CRASH

BEAUVAIS, France, Oct. 6.—UP—Heavy wagons lumbered over the rain soaked road between Allonne and Beauvais today, bearing the dead of the British dirigible R-101 on the first stage of the journey home.

Forty-seven bodies, only a few identified—so vicious were the flames that leaped through the massive airship after it had crashed on a hillside Sunday morning—lay in a conference room of the local town hall. Tomorrow, with impressive military ceremony, they will be transported back to England aboard warships.

Meanwhile British officials, quickly assembling here, began a minute study of the dirigible's warped fragments in order to determine the cause of the tragedy. There was no unanimity of opinion although Air Commodore Felton Vesey Holt, of the British Air Ministry, was emphatic in expressing the belief that the crash came through breakage of the ship's structure.

Finds Parts

"We have found parts as far as five miles from the scene of the wreck," said the commodore. "This indicated that something occurred at least five minutes before the dirigible plunged to earth. The parts will be examined with utmost care prior to a report of findings to the air ministry."

There was an opposing school of theory among the experts, some holding that leaky gasbags—due to the pressure of the storm that raged between Rouen and Beauvois—had caused the crash. So meager were the clues in the gaunt skeleton of the ship and so confused the eye-witness stories of the survivors that the mystery

RICHMOND BOY MISSING AGAIN

MARTINEZ, Oct. 6.—Jack Sullivan, 13 year old Richmond boy, who fled from his home three weeks ago and was returned by Oakland police, has disappeared again, according to a report to sheriff's officers today.

Kiwanis To Hear Fire Chief Cooper

Assistant Fire Chief J. J. Barry will be the speaker at the meeting of the Richmond Kiwanis club tomorrow at the Hotel Carquinez.

Fire Chief W. P. Cooper will be the speaker of the day, Barry announced yesterday.

Cooper will speak on "Educational Features of the Fire Chiefs' Convention."

Nomination of officers will be held during the meeting, it was stated.

Proposition No. 2 Scored By Cooper

According to Fire Chief W. P. Cooper, the initiative measure that is to appear on the November election ballot, known as Proposition No. 2, and which pretends to provide a pension system for firemen, should be defeated, as it is a yicious measure, and does not do what it pretends on its face to carry out.

This statement was made by Cooper at the meeting of the council last evening. The speaker said that the members of the Richmond fire department were one hundred percent against the measure, as was the Contra Costo County Firemen's association. Practically all of the fire chiefs of the state were also opposed to the proposed law.

Cooper said that on account of a joker in the measure, Los Angeles would practically get the bulk of the money, and that Richmond's share for the entire department would be but $46.43 a year.

Department Reports Presented To City

At the meeting of the city council last evening a number of departmental reports were read.

Sixty six permits were issued by the plumbing inspector and 34 permits issued for work.

LIFE TERMS ASKED FOR TWO

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 6.—UP—The widow of Frank Roderick, wealthy La Honda rancher, whose body was found buried in an abandoned well several months ago, and her asserted paramour Will Woodring, a ranch hand, were convicted on charges of first degree murder here late today.

The jury recommended that each be sentenced to prison for life.

As the verdict was read, Mrs. Minnie Roderick, the widow, collapsed in the arms of her mother Mrs. Antone Fayal, and Mrs. Dolly Granger, the matron who has guarded her, broke into tears.

Woodring, who testified that Mrs. Roderick had "confessed" to him that she killed her husband with a 30-30 rifle, heard the jury's findings calmly. Mrs. Roderick was also on the witness stand and tried to place full blame for the killing on Woodring.

It was the first time in the history of San Mateo county that a jury had the power to order the death penalty for a woman, but District Attorney Franklin A. Swart did not make such a demand in his closing argument.

The jurors deliberated only one hour and 40 minutes, voting Woodring guilty on the first ballot and standing 11 to 1 in favor of a similar verdict for Mrs. Roderick. The widow was convicted on the second ballot.

Mrs. Roderick did not break down from the time she was arrested until final arguments started this afternoon, but she cried hysterically when prosecution attorneys claimed a "love affair" between Woodring and herself was responsible for the slaying.

PARKING EVIL HIT AT MEET

Councilman A. L. Paulsen brought to the attention of the city council last night the abuse of motorists in parking their cars along Macdonald avenue. Paulsen said there was no regard to the amount of space cars occupied and often machines were parked in such a manner, that but few autoists were able to park in a block.

Mayor Hinkley referred the matter to the city manager, superintendent of streets and city attorney for one week.

It is possible that parking spaces will be marked along the avenue.

LEGION ELEVEN PLAYS TIE GAME

Football practice for the Richmond American Legion squad has been called for every night of this week by coach Claude Samples, in preparation for a game with the City of Paris team from San Francisco next Sunday on the Richmond Union High school field.

According to an announcement by Samples last night, practice this week will be strictly on signals and formations as he was exceedingly disappointed in last Sunday's game when the locals only tied the Ashby A. C.

Stating that Samples was disappointed, is putting it mild, as anyone of the players could have attested after last night's practice.

The coach started in on one end of the line, continued to the other side, and ended with the backfield and substitutes, telling one and all in scathing terms what kind of playing was done Sunday.

The tie score, 6 to 6, was, according to Samples, a "great kick in the neck" to the legionnaires, as he had held fond hopes of running up a high score on the Ashby club.

The team however, has shown marked improvement since the opening game a week ago, and is expected to have hit its stride by this Sunday, when the City of Paris squad comes to Richmond.

In the first half, the Richmond team consistently outplayed the Ashby eleven, pushed over a touchdown in the middle of the second quarter and was well on its way to another score when the half ended.

Clark scored the touchdown for Richmond, after a series of line bucks by he and Freeman, had brought the ball to the Ashby six yard line.

Here Clark, aided by superb interference, went through shortside for the score.

Clark and Freeman in the backfield, and Adcock and Cooper in the line were the shining lights of the game. Freeman at full and Clark at half were responsible for the mapority of the gains of the local eleven, and Adcock at tackle, and Cooper at end, were in practically every line play.

Adcock who was appointed captain for the game, played outstandingly, and in addition to smothering almost every line plunge, blocked two kicks and three passes.

The Ashby club came back strong in the second half, and with little more than five minutes of the game to play, threw a long pass, which was received over the Richmond's goal line.

The Richmond starting lineup was as follows: Cooper and Pitts, ends; Burton and Adcock, tackles; Peters and Frazier, guards; Myers, center; Youngs quarter; MacAllister and Paillo, halves and Freeman, full.

It is on display at the Perault Hardware store in West Richmond. A fishing rod is being given by that store for the largest bass caught here this season.

High School Gridders To Play Contest

Armstrong's Business college of Berkeley will be Richmond Union High school's next opponent on the gridiron. The two elevens will tangle Thursday afternoon on the local high school field.

The second team is expected to be started by Coach Frank Ribbel of Richmond.

The Richmond gridders are fresh from their fine showing against the University of California Frosh second team last week-end, and they are reckoned upon to present the visitors from Berkeley with a tricky brand of football Thursday. If they display the power and speed they showed against the college boys, they should be successful Thursday afternoon.

NET DOUBLES TITLE GAME PLAYED

The doubles tennis championship of Contra Costa county now rests in the hands of Al Blanchard and William Catton as a result of their unexpected victory over Walter Honsberger and Stanley Almquist Sunday morning on the City Hall courts.

The match, which ran into five sets, was won by a score of 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-9 and 6-4.

The match was one of the fastest championship affairs ever held on a Richmond court. For three and one half hours, the doubles championship contenders furnished the large gallery with a maximum of thrills. The winners played a far steadier game than Almquist and Honsberger, who staged a rather erratic game. Honsberger seemed to have an off-day, muffling easy shots and finding it difficult to work in partnership with Almquist.

The doubles trophy was presented to Blanchard and Catton following the match by A. S. Remell, chairman of the tournament committee.

Trophies for winners and runner-ups in this year's Contra Costa county open tennis tournament were presented by the following business men:

Dr. W. F. Fraser, singles winner; Byrnes & Squires, singles runner-up; W. S. McRacken, doubles winner; Mechanics bank, doubles winner; Ben Malik, doubles runner-up; O. A. Poulsen, doubles runner-up; Frank M. Smith, singles, three win trophy (previously donated); J. F. Brooks, doubles, three win trophy (previously donated).

Notre Dame Passes First Season Test

CHICAGO, Oct. 6.—Three preseason favorites — Notre Dame, Northwestern and Ohio State — have successfully passed opening tests and now rank as the middle west's leading contender for 1930 football honors.

In defeating Southern Methodist university of Dallas, Tex., Saturday, Notre Dame, the midwest's perennial challenger for national championship laurels, compared favorably with Rockne's championship aggregations of previous years.

Southern Methodist displayed the greatest pass attack the west has seen in a decade, and it is doubtful if any team of Notre Dame's 10-game "suicide" schedule will provide more trouble than the Texans. Coach Rockne was forced to use everything in his bag of tricks to nose out the southerners in a 20 to 14 victory.

Navy will be the next opponent for the Irish, visiting South Bend Saturday for the formal dedication of Notre Dame's beautiful new $800,000 stadium.

Northwestern turned in the most impressive performance among the "Big Ten" conference schools, defeating Tulane, 1929 Southern conference champions, 14 to 0.

Ohio State romped to a 23 to 0 victory over Indiana in the first "Big Ten" tilt of the year. The Buckeyes, "dark horse" of the conference race, flashed a powerful o-f fense, and should prove a worthy foe for Northwestern in the "Big Ten's" feature game at Evanston, Saturday.

In the other conference games Saturday, Illinois defeated Iowa State 7 to 0; Purdue downed Baylor, 20 to 7; Minnesota dropped a 33 to 7 decision to Vanderbilt; Iowa lost to the Oklahoma Aggies, 6 to 0; Michigan was held to a scoreless tie by Michigan State; Chicago won a double header from Ripon and Hillsdale, 19 to 0 and 7 to 6 respectively, and Wisconsin beat Carleton 28 to 0, and Lawrence, 53 to 6.

Foxx Homes To Beat Cardinals In Fifth World Series Game

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 6.—UP—A prodigious wallop from the bat of Jimmy Foxx which soared through the gloom of a misty twilight far into the distant stands broke up a great ball game and the world series dead'ock today, the Philadelphia Athletics defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, thereby, 2 to 0.

Jimmy's home run came dramatically in the ninth inning, after 38,844 fans in Sportsman's park had thrilled to the great pitching of Burleigh Grimes, and his opponents on the mound, George Earnshaw and Lefty Grove. It came just when the game, one of the most thrilling in world series history, seemed likely to go on into extra innings.

A magnificent pitching duel between the veteran spitball pitcher and the youthful Earnshaw marked the first seven innings, the Athletics' pitcher had allowed only two hits, and only two men to reach second. Burleigh, dusting off the Philadelphia batters until their coaches cried in protest, also allowed only two hits in the first seven innings and not a Mackman got as far as second.

Good Play

Then in the eighth the American league champions filled the bases assisted by some rather ragged infield play on the part of the Cardina's. With two men on, Connie Mack waved a pinch hitter, Jimmy Moore, to bat for Earnshaw and sent Lefty Grove to the bull pen to warm up. Moore walked, but two force plays got Grimes out of trouble.

The Cardinals, heartened by their success in checking this dangerous rally, faced Grove with their confidence restored and the fans roaring for a score.

But the Athletics' southpaw ace forced Taylor Douhit to pop to Max Bishop and Sparky Adams grounded to Jimmy Dykes. There was a mild yell of hope when Frankie Frisch singled to center, but Jim Bottomley struck out to end the inning.

Home Run

Still there was no hint of the ca'amity that was to befall the toiling Grimes and his white-clad mates in the ninth.

Burleigh Grimes started off by walking Mickey Cochrane, but the fans sent up a roar of triumph when Grimes forced Al Simmons to pop to Charley Gelbert in short left.

This brought up Foxx, with his bat of destiny. Jimmy batted the first pitched ball with a terrific impact.

Out in left center, Chick Hafey and Taylor Douhit were racing towards the fence, gazing up into the leaden skies where Foxx's drive was soaring lazily against the rain clouds. So high was the ball hit that at first it was not apparent to everyone that it would reach the bleachers.

Hits Bleachers

But it did, with plenty to spare, and while shirt sleeved fans fought for it, Grimes dashed his glove bitterly to the ground and the Cardinals stood around with long faces, sensing that defeat had overtaken them.

This third victory may prove all-important, although the National league champions lost nothing in the way of prestige, and are likely to be hard to beat in Philadelphia on Wednesday, when "Wild Bill" Hallahan will work for them.

The Cards made an effort to keep up their hopes and courage in their half of the ninth, but Grove made short work of them, and everyone knew the game was over. Chick Hafey faced Grove and popped to Cochrane in front of the plate. Ray Blades batted for George Watkins and walked. Cowbel's clanged, whistles blew and the crowd stood, cheering for a rally. But Wilson's tap was easy for Grove, who tossed him out, and Charley Gelbert fanned with his bat on his shoulder, to end the game.

ODD FELLOWS LOSE FAST GAME

The Nehi club of Berkeley proved too strong for the Richmond Odd Fellows Sunday afternoon when the Odd Fellows went down to a 10 to 2 defeat.

The local lodgemen did not show their usual brilliancy on the diamond last week-end, both with the willow and out on the field. They were able to gather but four hits off Schmidt, Nehi thrower. Martin started on the mound for the Odd Fellows, but was hit by a pitched ball in the fifth inning. Kamb finished the game. The two local hurlers allowed 10 hits.

The playing of both teams was rather irregular, each squad making five errors. The locals were handicapped by the fact that they were forced to use two substitutes.

Soccer Club Plays Tie With Phoenix Team

The local soccer season opened with a 0 to 0 draw between the Richmond soccer club team and the Phoenix team of Oakland.

The Phoenix team was forced to hold the defensive throughout almost the entire game. The visitors several times attempted to bring the ball into the territory of the Richmond goal, but Robert and William Blair, Richmond fullbacks, successfully kicked the ball back up the field and out of danger. The Phoenix goal was well battered but was also well defended.

Fine material was displayed by the Richmond soccer team in its first game of the 1930 season this week-end. Many of last year's veterans were in the ranks, while several new "finds" added to the snap of the Richmond eleven.

COLEMAN STARS IN RAFFLES AT FOX

Ronald Colman plays a smooth and polish English gentleman, a society favorite and popular athlete in his third and latest talking picture "Raffles" the mystery thriller which is coming to the Fox-California theater today. Refined and sauve though he may be, Raffles finds the lure of criminal adventure more than he can resist. In consequence his many distinguished associates are victimized time and again without the faintest suspicion of who the malefactor can be. Being parallel in theme, "Raffles" is a fit successor to Colman's two previous talker successes, "Bulldog Drummond" and "Condemned!"

A new force has come into Raffles' life at the time this modernized version of the famous melodrama opens. The famous Amateur Cracksman has given up his oblinquities in favor of love.

But his resolution to reform is short-lived and again he is shoved head on into his last and greatest adventure, for this time he stakes are the honor of his best friend and the heart of the girl he adores.

Kay Francis, who gave so fine a performance opposite Colman's friend, William Powell, in "Street of Chance" is the Gwen of the story. She and Colman play out a touching romance that is an essential part of the play's high adventure. Miss Francis is the first brunette to have played opposite Colman since Agnes Ayres. She is the successor to a long line of blondes that includes Ann Harding Joan Bennett, Lily Damita, Vilma Banky, Constance Talmadge and Lillian Gish.

Husband Slays Wife, Kills Self

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 6.—UP— Years of activity in politics and among women's clubs of Montana were believed to have led to a murder and suicide which brought tragedy today to a couple married for 55 years.

William J. Christie, about 80 years old, shot and killed his wife and then, sorrowing because he had been forced to the act, fatally wounded himself and died a short time later. Before he succumbed he told physicians that he wakened to find his wife threatening him with a revolver. He seized it and fired in self defense, he said.

Mrs. Christie was at one time employed on the Anaconda Standard, at Anaconda, Mont., according to Fred Christie, a nephew. For years she was engaged in state politics and an officer of the International Federation of Women's clubs. A breakdown interrupted her work.

HOOVER MAKES TALK BEFORE LEGION

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 6. —UP— With administration control of congress at stake before the voters a month hence, President Hoover paid a hurried visit to this vital congressional election battleground today.

Within four hours he delivered the second and third speeches of his eastern tour, shunning again all references to politics, but expounding the policies of his regime concerning the issues which are being debated between the Republican and Democratic candidates.

To 15,000 persons at the American Legion convention in the morning he delivered a plea for law observance and an accounting of his stewardship on foreign policies, peace, national defense and veterans' relief.

Good Will

In the historic arena, decorated with bright flags he faced enthusiastic legionnaires with an appeal for their help in establishing good citizenship and an admonition that they go home and preach international good will and honest elections as well as law observance by word and action.

The labor speech, delivered four hours later, before about 1,500 delegates of the federation, analyzed the unemployment situation as "the greatest economic problem" of the nation today. The president suggested that the machines which have replaced workers are bringing America greater security and revealed that Hoover is now working with President William Green of the federation and employers' associations to find a proper solution of this technological unemployment.

During all the time from his arrival at 9:30 a. m. until his special train pulled out of the back bay station at 4 p. m. en route to Kings Mountain, S. C., for a speech tomorrow, president Hoover was cordially received. Both he and former president Calvin Coolidge were given unusual demonstrations by the legionnaires.

Coolidge Talks

When Hoover concluded and Coolidge was introduced as "the nation's most distinguished private citizen," there were calls for a speech from the former president. Hoover joined the applause and Coolidge spoke as follows:

"To save the time of this convention I am going to give you just a sentence:

"You have paid your debt to Lafayette but you still owe a debt to yourselves and the nation."

Chaplin Will Release Silent Film In Future

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 6. —UP— Charles Spencer Chaplin, the greatest of the screen comedians, soon will be ready to put his case in the hands of the jury, the movie fans of the world.

He has completed his shooting on his new picture "City Lights" —the only non-talkie production of any consequence made during the past two years—and before long it will be exhibited.

Needless to say the entire motion picture industry will watch with Chaplin for the verdict.

Chaplin always has insisted that the introduction of dialogue in films was a betrayal of the art of the screen.

While all others of importance in Hollywood gave way to the talkies the comedian maintained there always would be a market for silent pictures.

He backed this belief with $1,500,000 of his own money in the production of "City Lights."

"City Lights" is synchronized with sound and music but there is not a spoken word.

Chaplin intends it as a test of whether the art of pantomine, developed through 25 years of silent films, can be forced aside by the talking pictures, dubbed by him as "a new form of screen entertainment."

As customary with Chaplin he pursued a leisurely course in making his new picture. He started work on it more than two years ago and proceeded only when he felt like going before the camera.

Chinese Police Hold Two Men As Murderers

PEIPING, (UP)—Two prominent Chinese have been arrested by Peiping police charged with being the leaders of an 'assassination corps," which has already killed a number of leaders of the Left Wing of the Kuomintang, and according to the police had planned to murder many more.

The police allege that Huang Po-yao, one of the men now in jail here, is employed directly by General Chiang Kai-shek, chief of the government at Nanking and leader of the moderate wing of the Kuomintang. They declare they have veidence that Huang engineered assassinations in Shanghai and Canton.

Huang came to North China last May, the police charge, in order to arrange the assassination of Wang Ching-wei, leader of the Left Wing, who was expected to come to North China at that time. Wang Ching-wei, however, remained in Hongkong, waiting for Right and Left Wing leaders to settle their disputes and agree upon the principles of a new northern government.

Wang Chiang-wei, who has consistently been General Chiang Kai-shek's principal opponent inside the Kuomintang, has been fearing assassination for years. When he came to Shanghai in 1927, he surrounded his house with four sets of gaurds, and did not venture into Chinese territory.

The Chinese press here declares that Chiang Kai-shek has gotten rid of dozens of his opponents by assassination, employing gunmen from Shanghai and Canton. This of course, is the statement of newspaper operated by General Chiang's political opponents, and there is no independent evidence to substantiate these claims.

HEART DISEASE DEATHS ON DECREASE

NEW YORK, Oct. 6. — While there has been a substantial decrease in the death toll from heart disease for each sex under the age of 45, records of deaths among the industrial population of the country show a decided increase among men over 45 and a small increase among women over 55. The study, made by the statistical bureau of a life insurance company among its industrial policyholders, embraces the period between 1911 and 1929.

Commenting on this study the company's statistical bulletin says:

"The improvement in the deathrate is a little more pronounced for young females than for males. A reduction of 2.5 per cent per year in the deathrate, over a nineteen-year period, at the ages between 25 and 34 years, is a substantial and favorable item in the mortality record. A gratifying return was likewise shown for young people between 20 and 24 years and for the older group between 35 and 44 years.

"These figures suggest the very interesting question whether we are not now witnessing among our people under 45 years of age the favorable effect of public health measures at work during ehe last forty or fifty years in checking the infections which damage the heart and allied structures. Is there a growing proportion of the population with hearts unimpaired by the sequealae of scarlet fever, diphtheria, typhoid fever, syphilis and the streptococcus? It appears so, although additional investigation is required to settle this point. May we not hope for less and less heart disease of infectious origin as the population is further benefited by preventive medicine?

"The death rate from heart disease after age 45 is obviously a different matter. There can be no question as to the fact of a persistent and steady rise, much more striking among males than among females. At these older ages, not enough information is at hand at the present time to permit a classification of the heart lesions causing death into etiologic types. But it is obvious that factors other than those of acute infections in adolescence now take a more prominent part. Much of the heart disease after age 45 is definitely of the hypertensive or arteriosclerotic type. This, in turn, may well be the result, in some measure, of the increasing stress and strain of modern life. Here certainly is a field for research of the very greatest importance."

BRAZIL REVOLT BATTLE IS NEAR

SANTO, Rome, Corrientes Province, Argentina, Oct. 6.—UP— A battle between loyal Federal troops and advancing rebels was believed imminent tonight at Puerto San Borjas last night, cutting communications between San Francisco De Borpashn and Argentina. San Francisco De Borpas remained in possession of civil revolutionaries, who awaited reinforcements.

The rebels were reported rushing 300 men under Juan Cristino, revolutionary leader, to San Francisco De Borjas to defend the city and to march on the loyal cavalry unit.

FEDERALS OPEN ATTACK ON REBELS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Oct. 6.—UP—(Delayed by censor) The federal offensive against growing rebellion got into action Sunday afternoon when an airplane squadron bombarded Bello Horizonte, capital of Minas Geraes state, the air ministry announced today.

The casualties were unknown. The announcement declared a group of revolutionaries in the town of Rio Preto, in Minas Geraes had surrendered to federal troops without resistance.

The war office said additional squadrons of airplanes would depart for the north as well as the south in the movement to suppress the revolt which broke out over the week-end in widely separated sections of the country.

Banks Closed

Martial law was extended thruout Brazil today as an emergency measure to combat the threat of revolt.

All banks in the capital were closed for 15 days.

Troops, warships and airplane squadrons co-operated as the federal government massed its forces preparatory to an advance.

Rebels In Control

The rebels claimed to have control in the states of Rio Grande Do Sul in the south; Santa Catharine, Parana, Minas Geraes, Matto Grosso and Pernambuco. The federal authorities admitted the revolutionists had captured the capitals of Rio Grande Do Sul and Minas Geraes.

Rio Grande Do Sul is a state at the extreme southern tip of Brazil, where the rebellion broke out last Saturday. Minas Geraes, a considerably larger state, lies northwest of Rio De Janeiro.

The states claimed by the rebels would throw the entire central and southern sections of the republic to their side. The rebel claims were discounted in federal quarters, but martial law was extended throughout the country, due to alarming reports. The decree was made effective until Dec. 31.

President Order

The president's announcement read:

"The president of the Republic of the United States of Brazil, using the authorization conferred by legislative decree No. 5808, of Oct. 4, the current year, has resolved to extend to all territory of the republic until Dec. 31, 1930, a state of siege declared by the decree mentioned.

(Signed)

WASHINGTON LUIS"

While the rebels appeared most active in the south, the extent of the revolt affected wider areas than was at first anticipated.

Circulating Room Heater

The Circulating Room Heater is installed in your living room and connected to a vent which carries off burnt gases. The Radiantfire

In England, more than 11,000,000 radiant heaters are in use. According to a London magazine, "Tid-Bits," (Nov. 1929), "The highest consumption of gas per acre in residential districts is in Harley Street — occupied by the leading medical specialists in the kingdom. English doctors use 5340 radiant heaters." This testifies to the convenience, cleanliness, and healthfulness of the Radiantfire. Let us install one in your fireplace. $5 down.

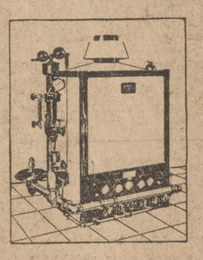
The Warm-Air Furnace

The Warm-air Furnace

Most homes depending upon a basement heating plant for heating the entire home, have Warm-Air Furnaces. This type of heating is especially fine for California's mild climate. And Natural Gas is the perfect fuel to use in a Warm-Air Furnace. It lends itself more easily to safe automatic control. A finger's touch starts clean, healthful heat flowing into your home. All burnt gases go outdoors through a chimney.

Ask us or a heating dealer for a heating proposal. Exceptionally convenient terms can be arranged.



The Steam Boiler

Steam Heat

Steam Heating with radiators located in each room is considered the best. You need never think of heat all winter long, except to enjoy its warmth, for an automatic regulator on the wall of your living room keeps the gas turned off when not needed to maintain the temperature desired. You have clean, silent, odorless and absolutely effortless heating, thus promoting the health and happiness of the whole family.

The steam boiler is made for any small or large home, flat, apartment house, or building. Ask us or a heating dealer for an estimate. Terms if you wish them.

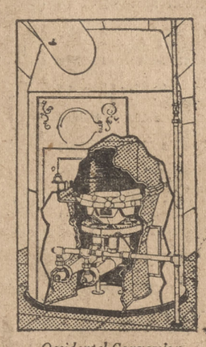
Automatic!

With a tiny lever on this Thermostat you start or stop your furnace or boiler. It automatically keeps your home at an even, perfect temperature.

Change your Present Furnace to Burn Natural Gas

The finest heating costs no more—so why not change your present coal furnace to burn Natural Gas?

We merely install the silent Occidental Conversion Burner in the firebox. It is perfectly safe and healthful. We mount a Thermostat upon the wall of your living room. The burnt gases go outdoors through a chimney, just as smoke does now.



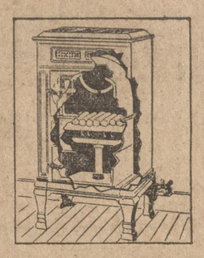
Occidental Conversion Burner

Total cost of Occidental Conversion Burner installed in warm-air furnace, $110.00. Terms $10.00 down, $5.00 a month.

The "For Rent" or "For Sale" sign on your property will come down quicker if you offer this automatic heating.

Change Circulating Room Heater to Burn Natural Gas

Enjoy all the warmth and comfort of your Circulating Room Heater without the trouble of starting a fire and cleaning up afterwards. Let us change your heater to burn Natural Gas. You keep your home at an even temperature simply by regulating a handy valve. Burnt gases are vented outdoors.



Occidental Conversion Burner installed in Circulating Room Heater

THE WOMAN OF IT

THE OLD HOME REVISITED

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

At that small window once she stood
To wave farewell as forth we went
Each day, on youth's sure purpose bent,
Blessed by her love's solicitude.

Here is the dining-table; here
Is her old seat. About her once
Were four small boys, her sturdy sons,
Who grew to manhood, year on year

Here is her bedroom. Laid away
In her great bureau, locks of hair,
The first frail shoes that babies wear,
First teeth, and toys we used at play,

And priceless school-reports, she kept
As if to halt Time's fatal tread
In this capacious walnut bed
Through all her widowhood she slept.

Now, at the little window stands
No anxious figure and no face
Appears; in the familiar place,
There is no sign from loving hands.

J. H. WALLIS.

"While There's Life—!"

WOMEN have been reading, in recent news dispatches, of that feminine tragedy in Los Angeles—
The case of the woman who shot her own sister—
Of Mrs. Ruth Weimer, who, under arrest for killing Mrs. Mabel Agnes Steele,
Pleaded pitifully to look once more upon the dead sister's face—
Sobbingly insisted that she killed for love,
That she wanted to end Mrs. Steele's suffering
Because her husband had taken her children away.
"She said she wished she were dead," Mrs. Weimer repeated over and over. "I said, 'Do you really wish it?'
"She said, 'Yes.'
"Then I went upstairs and got the gun.
"She threw up her hands and I shot her."
That is the crudely appalling report as published,
And what it must suggest to the thoughtful woman who reads it
Is simply this: "How many times have you wished the vain thing—
Wished you were dead—
"And did you ever—can you ever—REALLY wish it?"
That last pathetic gesture of the poor woman who was shot—
That throwing up of her hands—
What could it signify except life's unconquerable resurgence,
Life's irresistible protest against extinction?
A woman may be suffering intensely
Because she has lost her lover or her child—
Because she is lonely and poor and growing old—
Because people and fate have been brutal to her—
Because her heart's desire seems forever beyond her reach—
Oh, there are innumerable ways in which a woman can be reduced to despair—
So that she says, and thinks she means, "I wish I were dead!"
Sometimes she takes herself at her suicidal word—
And then it's too late for her to "throw up her hands"
In the last, swift, fierce, SURE realization
That ALWAYS "while there's life, there's hope!"
What we wish is that this California tragedy might shock even the unhappiest woman into recognition
Of the stubborn, deep-buried, illogical yet justifiable hope at the root of pain—
The hope that life will yet be worth living,
That death is the only unconquerable antagonist—
The only one to have the last word:
That the woman who, in Kipling's immortal phrase, can still "hold on when there is nothing in you
"Except the will that says to you 'Hold on!'"—
That this valiant woman must always be the mistress of her fate,
And can never be truly defeated by anguish,
Since she never admits defeat!
If only every woman could know this truth, with heart and brain,
She would not even say, "I wish I were dead"—
She would not utter a vain thing—
Not merely because she would be too brave,
But because she would be too fearful
Lest the gods overhear and take her at her word!

EVE WINKS

Some say that the easiest way for a girl out of work to provide for her future is to marry. There is truth in that. If she marries, she'll never be out of work again.

The man who laughs at his own jokes and the married woman who tells you of the perfect man she has married, awaken the same reaction.

A tip to married folk: Why not encourage the mother-in-law to indulge in tree sitting? She'd be good and quiet up there, and besides, she could be given the family stockings to mend as a pastime.

There is one advantage in not being a talkie heroine. When a man tells you he loves you, you don't have to wait until he gets through with the theme song before he kisses you.

A DISH A DAY

By [illegible]

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

If there is a girl scout in your home, or even among your neighbors, the subject of cooking has come out of the limbo of routine tasks and has become a matter of vital interest. These youngsters returning from camp bring with them a fresh enthusiasm for tackling household tasks that is infectious. Many a girl brought up in a home managed by a competent staff of servants knows little of the mysteries of the kitchen. What goes on there is of little more interest to her than the stoking of a furnace so long as the results are satisfactory. But if she is lucky enough to go to a Girl Scout camp she is sure to come home looking on the kitchen as a scene of adventure that she insists on sharing.

KAREN HOLLIS

Partly responsible for this keen interest is the fact that Girl Scout executives do not encourage their young followers to spend a great deal of time in the kitchen. After all, they are primarily concerned with outdoor activities. So, the youngsters come home with their enthusiasm undeadened. Cooking is still a novelty, and it will continue to be a novelty if they are encouraged to widen the scope of their knowledge and not just repeat the processes they have learned at camp.

Some very young girl scouts have asked me for a simple recipe for cookies that are not very rich, and the one I have selected has many notable features in addition to the simplicity of preparation. These cookies have unusual flavor, very delicate texture, and will keep several days without growing stale. In line with our modern policy of avoiding unnecessary work, they are not rolled, but merely dropped from a spoon.

CARAMEL COOKIES

½ cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder

Put one-half cup of sugar in a small skillet and heat slowly over a low fire until it becomes light brown and liquid. Remove from the fire, add two tablespoons of water and stir well. Return to the fire and cook for one minute, or until thoroughly blended. Cream the butter with the remaining sugar, add the caramel syrup and beat well. Add the egg, beat briskly and then add the milk and vanilla. Sift the flour, salt and baking powder together three times and add, a little at a time, to the liquid mixture. Drop in small spoonfuls on a buttered baking sheet, flatten each cookie out with a knife and bake for ten to fifteen minutes in a moderate (350°) oven.

New Jewelry and How to Wear It

By Ann Roberts

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

VELVET BAG WITH GALERIA CLASP AND STRING OF PEARLS.

JEWELRY isn't a bit promiscuous this season. It's this way: You can't wear a grand string of beads and, because they are intrinsically good, hope that they will distract attention from the old or made-over dress. No—no—nothing like that.

The jewels are a part of the gown or there are no jewels. The day of letting a solid gold something make the picture because it is good is past and gone. Now you think of design first—design as related to the whole costume. Then you decide on which jewels and how they shall be a part of the general ensemble.

Mrs. Millionaire has to put her mind to it and attend to resetting if she wishes to be recognized as smart. And Mrs. Well-Dressed-on-a-Small-Income has lots of opportunity with semi-precious stones or frank imitations just as long as she does them right.

Rubies With Black or White

THE new strands of rubies are stunning. Polished beads rather large, strung with crystal and jet between them, are well designed for wear with evening things. Of course with dead black they are wonderful and again with the off-white shades. You see the dress is simplicity in the nth degree and the jewels alone make the decoration.

With this arrangement you would carry a handsome brocaded bag ornamented with a clasp set in rubies—and your whole evening costume would be quite complete.

What to Do With Turquoise

A BLACK suede bag with turquoise clasp might well be the beginning of a smart though formal street ensemble. Starting from that point you repeat the turquoise with a double string of beads to wear about the neck and a third color touch might be a ring of beads worn for a bracelet.

With a black or dark brown suit this bluish-green accompaniment would be terribly smart.

So many of the newer antelope bags have wide and interesting looking shell frames and handles. Now beads to use with these are polished tortoise shell in sixty-inch strings. This combination works in beautifully with cloth street dresses, of which you will soon see so many, or with tailored suits.

SHELL TRIMMED BAG AND POLISHED SHELL BEADS TO WEAR WITH STREET COSTUME.

FOUR STRAND STRING OF RUBY BEADS COMBINED WITH JET AND CRYSTAL.

With Formal Clothes

MARCASITE and semi-precious stones are still used together for the smartest of accessories. But they go with only the most formal sorts of dressing. Often they are so lovely and sparkling that a mere touch or two will liven up a costume which might be otherwise quite dull. It all depends on the way the "touch" is handled.

With broadtail coats or velvet suits, with fur-trimmed cloth dresses or those done with real lace, marcasite clasps for bag and hat—or a bar in cleverly used on the dress—make an excellent effect.

Pearls are good with formal clothes—I might say very formal clothes. The number of strands mark the grade of formality—one with the quiet though elegantly tailored black or brown dress—two for a dress or suit that goes in for a little more dressiness and three for the quite elaborate thing—preferably the evening thing. I should say two strands were the limit unless the occasion were a wedding or a formal reception, in which case the dressing would be formal in key with the occasion.

With these dresses and the pearls, showing of course their marcasite clasps, you carry simple velvet bags, one of the new ones being a roll sort of thing shown on this page. The clip of marcasite, galeria or brilliants used on the bag is repeated on the hat.

Bags of Faille

MARCASITE initials are attached to handbags made of faille, brightening them up and giving them a very handsome appearance. This sort of bag is excellent to carry with any costume of a semi-formal nature, and the bags are made in the off-black shades to match the newer costumes.

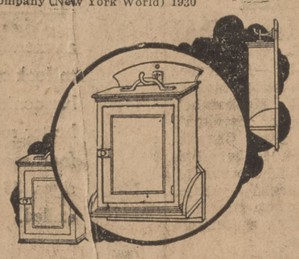
CLOTH IS USED FOR BACK TRIMMING, NECKLET AND BRACELET.

THE combination stationary and portable medicine cabinet is realized in the device pictured. It consists of a cabinet of any size or kind to which a carrying handle is attached, as shown, and a shelf panel fastened to the wall for making the cabinet stationary. Any person having actual need for a medicine cabinet will appreciate the advantage of the portable variety, for it can be instantly detached from the panel and carried to the person requiring first aid treatment.



It is not necessary, or advisable even, to make the cabinet. Those who have converted stationary cabinets into portable ones have usually taken down fixed cabinets, refinished them with a coat of white enamel all around, and attached a carrying handle. This is as easily done with a metal cabinet as with one of wood, for it is advisable to use screw bolts with washers for fastening the handle in either case.

The design and size of panel is a matter of taste. We present a design that may be used. It consists of a back piece, a shelf, two brackets and two end pieces for steadying the cabinet. All of the pieces are of one-half-inch wood, screwed or nailed together. The long clothes-hook used for holding the cabinet is bolted to the back with screw bolts, similar to those employed for fastening the carrying handle. The panel is secured to the wall with three long 3-16-inch screws, driven into studding, which may be located by tapping the wall with a hammer. A priming coat of flat white and two coats of enamel should be given to the panel before nailing it to the wall.

You and Your Child

Scolding

TALK, talk, talk! "You shouldn't do this." "Why did you do that?" "You're a bad child." "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

Does this continual scolding do any good? Rarely. It usually "goes in one ear and out of the other." And sometimes it arouses antagonism and a sense of resistance in the child, making him contrary and obstinate.

"But you have to scold children sometimes, don't you?" a young mother asks. That all depends upon what you mean by scolding. Parents have to make many explanations to their children and show them their mistakes. But wouldn't it be better to say that one often has to talk things over with one's youngsters? When George tells a lie we can explain in a heart to heart talk that people cannot live happily together unless they can trust and believe one another. When Shirly continually leaves her pajamas on the floor and her coat on the chair, we can show her how unfair it is to make so much extra work for mother. When Peter teases his little sister we can ask him to put himself in her place and consider how he would relish similar treatment.

Children should not be subjected to too much "talking to," however. Many small mistakes should go unnoticed for the time being. We should avoid continual "fussing" with the young ones. Then, too, lessons are often better learned by experience than by instruction. As children are very imitative they learn many desirable habits by following our good example. Then also, the results are usually better when we commend good conduct than when we point out mistakes.

When, however, we think it advisable to speak to a child in regard to an offense, we should make our complaints very definite. "You're the untidiest child I've ever seen," is a blanket statement and will not convince the youngster that he is blameworthy. Whereas, "Monday evening you left your toys all over the room, last night you left peach pits on your bureau, and this morning you didn't put away your night clothes," are accusations that will have some weight.

Let us always calm ourselves before talking to our young ones. A quiet, friendly tone of voice will have much more effect than an irritated, high pitched one.

In homes where the mother is a "scold," the youngsters run out of the house just as quickly as they can. If we want our children to love their homes and our company, we must avoid continual nagging and scolding.

TELLING THE WORLD

A COURSE IN MODESTY

JUST when America was convinced that higher education is a good thing, the University of Iowa announces a course in training radio announcers. Eight men have joined this course and they have chosen the violet for their class flower.

We can imagine Prof. A. Dale Riley conducting that radio announcers' course—

"Gentlemen, the results of last week's test were very disappointing. If you boys can't improve your announcing technique, I should advise you to switch to the agricultural college and go in for hog calling.

"For instance, Mr. Martin, your announcing of the football game was poor, to say the least. You were at the microphone two and a half hours describing the gridiron contest and you never once said how chilly you were up there on the roof.

"I don't want to be unduly critical, Mr. Martin, but you must learn that a half back's broken neck or a lineman's fractured skull is not half so interesting to the radio audience as whether you are personally enjoying the sunshine or whether your hands and feet are cold.

"Another thing, Mr. Martin—you didn't once chuckle at your own jokes. That is a terrible omission. Why, the radio public won't know you got off a wise crack unless you put a chuckle on the end. In fact, you should put in two or three chuckles—just to be sure.

"Now, Mr. Schultz, I regret to say your microphone test was rather bad, too. In announcing the International Garbage Pail hour, you did not stress that International garbage pails are the best in the world and are to be found on four out of every five back doorsteps. Instead of expounding the galvanized iron model of garbage can, you wasted valuable moments extolling the beauties of Beethoven's symphony they were about to hear. Don't let this happen again or you will be hurled out of this course by the scruff of the neck.

"In your test, Mr. O'Regan, you did fairly well, but you made the tremendous mistake of clearing your throat in the middle of your announcement. Supposing you'd been announcing the Cold Rolled cigaret hour! They would have got six million complaints.

"A mistake that you made, Mr. Harley, was in broadcasting the imaginary heavyweight fight. You forgot to say Jimmy Walker was present with his cane. You forgot to put in a good word for Amon G. Carter, who was present. How you ever expect to get invited out to his place whenever you happen to be in Fort Worth? I will concede you said Roy Howard had a front seat but you never said a word about his pink shirt.

"It's omissions like these, gentlemen, that mar the work of a radio announcer. All your accents were pretty rotten, too. I admit this is only the University of Iowa, but you must speak like graduates of Oxford if you are going to be a success. For instance, Mr. Bimley, you announced that Henry G. Stimson was Secretary of State and you pronounced 'secretary' in four syllables. The sooner you learn that the snooty way to say 'secretary' is 'secretry' the better off you'll be.

"That's all for to-day, gentlemen, but the next time you broadcast a football game I don't want to hear you call each play right the first time. That ruins the radio audience's suspense."

THIS AND THAT

Geologists report that the earth settling caused those 'quakes in Italy. We always thought Mussolini settled everything in that country.

California is making a motor car that will travel five miles a minute. It won't have any taximeter.

The government blames the Soviet for pushing down the price of American wheat. We wish those Russians would give a little attention to the price of our rye.

A New England radio station was broadcasting directions to bootleggers at sea. Can you imagine how seasick they'd be if Graham McNamee was calling the signals at the mike?

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

RICHMOND CLUB SHOW HERE TONIGHT

Something exceptional in amateur productions is to be offered Richmond's theater patrons with the presentation of "Three Wise Fools", given under the auspices of the Richmond club tonight in the Roosevelt auditorium. The vast has been selected from a list of those well versed in the art of dramatic presentation and is being headed by several prominent people in many dramatic circles.

The play was cleverly edited by Austin Strong and has called for great popularity both during its long and successful run in New York and in its screen version.

Mrs. Zelda Chapin, well known for her dramatic ability has been directing the rehearsals.

The appearance of Gervase Brown one time director of plays in the Little theater of Bakersfield, who has taken leading roles in over 60 one and three act plays, is of special interest.

Dr. G. A. Guthrie, who is to be seen in one of the three male leads has also had previous theatrical experience as had Russell Whiting appearing in the third male lead.

Following is the cast:

Mr. Theodore Findley, Gervase Browne; Dr. Richard Gaunt, Russell Whiting; Hon. James Trumbull T. A. Guthrie; Miss Fairchild, Regina Matthews; Mrs. Saunders, Virginia Bryant; Gordon Schuyler, Allen Moore; Benjamin Sutratt, Benj. Banner; John Crawhsay, C. F. Westwood; Poole, Claire Thomas; Gray, Henry Clarke; Clancy, Melvine Sprague.

An added attraction is the overture and other musical selections to be provided by the Orpheus tric composed of Vivian Vaughn, piano; Audra Wilson, violin; and Madeline Whittelsey, 'cello, a group of young musicians well known locally and in Eastbay musical circles may never be solved.

There were seven survivors—instead of eight. Wallace G. Radcliffe, engineer who succeeded in escaping alive from the flames, succumbed to his burns early today in Beauvais hospital.

One Dying

There was a possibility that another survivor, Samuel Church, a rigger, might not recover from his injuries. His condition was reported critical tonight and he and three others — Engineer Victor Savery, Radio Operator Arthur Disley and Engineer Alfred Cook —will remain in the hospital while three who were hurt less seriously will go to London tomorrow.

These three—Harry J. Leach, Arthur Bell and Joseph Binks—were told that it was thought best for them to travel separately by train and boat rather than to be taken in the funeral conveyances. Officials feared that they would be disturbed by proximity to the victims that had been their comrades in the air.

Their morale was high, however. Bell and Leach declared they were eager to resume their duties in dirigible srvice.

"I would go again tomorrow if there were an opportunity," Leach said.

COUNCIL OF EL CERRITO MEETS

Mayor J. R. Beck at a meeting of the council of El Cerrito Monday night appointed Councilman Hans M. Nissen, Phil A. Lee and the city attorney as a committee to draw up an ordinance requiring owners to obtain permits before erecting signs over the sidewalk area.

The recommendation for such an ordinance was made by Councilman Hans M. Nissen, after investigating a complaint of J. Herman that the sign of the business establishment next him shut off the view of the sign on his building.

City Attorney T. H. DeLap was instructed to notify Dr. C. Aronovici, city planning expert, to attend the meeting of the council next Tuesday evening to discuss the cost of zoning the city.

The regular meeting will be held Tuesday instead of Monday on account of Monday being a holiday.

Contract for supplying the city with gasoline, kerosene, and lubricating oil for one year was awarded to the Shell Oil company.

Petition to have Phillip Sisterna retained as traffic officer to help the school children cross San Pablo avenue at Potrero avenue signed by forty-four residents was referred to Police Commissioner Hans M. Nissen and Chief of Police R. R. Cheek.

Application of the American Legion auxiliary for a permit to hold a dance at Schwake hall on Saturday, October 25th, was granted by the council.

Scale Model For Zeppelin Hangar Here

The show window of the Civic Center Tire and Battery company at Twenty-third street and Nevin avenue at present contains an exhibit of wide interest. This object is a scale model of the Goodyear-Zeppelin hangar at Akron, Ohio. It was awarded to the Civic Center Tire Garage as second prize in a Goodyear tire selling contest conducted during the summer months in the eastbay region.

The model is built to a scale of one foot for every 294 feet. The model is four feet long, and its doors are opened and closed by electricity. The Akron hangar, the largest structure without interior supports in the world, is built to house the navy zeppelin ZRS-4 and ZRS-5 to be constructed by the Goodyear - Zepplin corporation. These zeppelins will be two and one half times larger than the Graf Zeppelin.

The hangar at Akron covers enough ground to be the scene of ten football games at one time. It is estimated that there is standing room for one million people in the huge building. It is sufficiently large to house the Lexington and Saratoga airplane carriers and the Washington monument.

The length of the hangar is 1175 feet, the width 325 feet, the height 211 feet, and the floor area, 364,000 square feet. The steel used in the construction of the building weighs, without the doors, 5560 tons, while the doors alone weigh 2400 tons.

NEW BILLINGS HEARING IS SEEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—The state supreme court will probably hold a new public hearing on the application of Warren K. Billings convicted Preparedness Day bomber, before a decision is given, it was indicated here today. Edward Cunha, former assistant district attorney of San Francisco and Fred L. Berry, former assistant district attorney, representing the court in the rescent public hearing are reported to have several important witnesses and important documentary evidence to offer respectively.

The announcement of the new public hearing is not yet official as Chief Justice William H. Waste and both of the attorneys refused to conform the report. However, Waste intimated a possibility that more witnesses might be examined by the court and that the justices have started to discuss the evidence gathered in the former hearing.

The deadline for filig documents in the case has been extended from Oct. 1 to Nov. 1.

It is reported that Edward McKenzie, Billings attorney, and Frank P. Walsh, Thomas J. Mooney's counsel, will also present additional evidence in the tentative hearing. If held, the public hearing will probably begin next week.

DRINK PERMIT

The council last evening granted Thomas Pollard a permit to sell soft drinks at 419 Macdonald avenue.

Riderless Horse Clue In Man Hunt

PALO ALTO, Oct. 6.—The mountain trails back of Stanford university are being closely searched for the body of Anthony Almus, rancher living near Palo Alto. The search started this morning when a horse, spattered with blood, returned to the Wickersham stables with a saddle hanging under his body.

The horse was rented yesterday by Alums, who stated that he was going to ride into the hills of San Mateo county for a few hours to visit some friends

The Palo Alto police believe that Alums may have struck his head on the limb of a tree and have been dragged by his frightened steed. There is also the possibility that the saddle slipped out of position and the rider was thrown to the ground.

The horse trotted up to the Wickersham stables today with its hide torn and cut and its body streaked with sweat. One stirrup was missing.

Many Cases Reported In City

among older persons this year than ever before.

Pools Closed

Swimming pools of San Francisco have been closed as a precautionary measure, and warnings have been broadcast for residents of the city to avoid crowds and keep up resistance by regular habits.

Cases reported here since the first of the year, by months, are as follows:

January 1; March 1; May 1; June 3; July 7; August 24; September 69. and October to date, 13. This is a total of 119, and there have been 12 deaths.

Daylight Bandits Rob L. A. Theater

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—UP—Two bandits brutally clubbed employes of the Belmont Theater today before escaping with $1100 in currency which was being sorted for banking.

R. E. Edwards was knocked down with the butt of a gun and two employes who attempted to aid him received similar treatment.

FOUR DROWNED IN TEXAS FLOOD

BRADY, Texas, Oct. 6. —UP— Flood waters caused by a three-day downpour raged down the normally dry bed of Brady Creek tonight, engulfing this town of 4,000 persons and taking toll of life and property.

Four persons were known to have been drowned. They were John Shockey, 65, pioneer resident, and three unidentified Mexicans. Rescue workers searched through the darkened streets for several reported missing.

The first surge of the flood put the city power plant out of commission. There were no lights or drinking water in Brady tonight. Fear of spread of disease caused Red Cross relief workers to send out a rush call for typhus serum.

250 Homeless

More than 250 persons were made homeless as the waters swept houses from the lowland districts of the town.

Much of the business section was five feet under water, and continuation of the rain was expected to make conditions still worse.

Dozens of persons were saved from the flood today by the heroic efforts of rescue workers. Lack of boats in this usually arid cow town hampered attempts to take residents from their flooded homes.

Under Water

The town plaza, around which the business section is built, was several feet under water. Small buildings floated in the streets. Every business establishment was flooded, and damage to merchandise was estimated at many thousands of dollars.

Frank Roddie, former Daniel Baker college football star, was among the missing. Others were believed to have perished, and rescue workers waded around in the flooded sections in an effort to locate their bodies.

County Seat

Lack of electricity constituted a serious problem. The flickering light of torches cast a weird glow over the flooded streets.

Telephone service was almost entirely disrupted. Highways were impassable.

Brady is the seat of McCullock county. It lies in the center of a vast farming and ranching area.

Penny Swallowed By 2 Year Old Tot

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—UP—A penny caused considerable confusion at Central Emergency hospital here today. The penny, it happened, was inside of two-year-old Beverly Criston, whose parents rushed him to the hospital to withdraw the "deposit" from the impromptu "bank." Ordinary methods failed to dislodge the coin, so Beveraly went home, still guarding his penny, to await an X-ray.

Scouts Hold Park Meeting

The older Scouts conference, held at Alvarado park over the past week-end, was attended by approximately 50 Scouts from Contra Costa county.

The group was divided into three divisions and advanced scout work was studied under the direction of an Eagle Scout.
